2. Between 11 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. on 19 December, no aircraft were observed at the field. Visibility was limited from 600 to 800 meters. The hangars on the northern edge of the field were closed. There was no flying. **

25X1A

Comment. The runway at Jueterbog-Altes Lager airfield was completed in October 1950 and was 1,800 meters long. Expansion work at its western end was observed in the spring of 1951. The exact data on the runway has not been confirmed by other sources.

25X1A

Comment. During the period of observation, the field was occupied by a ground attack regiment which had arrived from Keinsdorf on 17 November 1951.

25X1A

The regiment was last confirmed by another source on 5 January 1952. The aircraft were probably parked in the hangars at the time of observation. Two bomber regiments from Jueterbog were transferred to Werneuchen on 6 December 1951.
